How I feel about the Neanderthals as part of your ancestry is very surprising because due to the fact that we never really known until recently we have evolved from them and yet we didn't know anything about them at the time we were fighting them. We destroyed them because we thought they were a different species. Our species killed them without thinking or understanding. We destroyed our own history all for what for conquest? Thinking about makes me realize how dangerous human nature is when we look our both our nature and culture. Well, how the Neanderthals are similar is how page 81 talking about how both Neanderthals and Homo Erectus by being primates, having similar Strength, and having similar biological structure-like hands, arms, thumbs leading the ability to make all the tools they needed. "Adaptive processes also shaped the primate skeleton. In nearly all of the primates, the big toe and thumb are opposable, making it possible to grasp and manipulate objects such as sticks and stones with their feet as well as their hands. Humans and their direct ancestors are the only exceptions, having lost the opposable big toe." Evolution through Adaptation Page #81. My Opinion didn't really change on
